

Illustration by Giana Leung and Irene Lo (5A)

New Year in Thailand is celebrated from April 13th to April 15th. During this time there is a huge festival called the Songkran Festival. In this festival, people throw water at each other to wash away any bad things that happened in the last year and to welcome the new year with a fresh start.

During the New Year many Thai people visit temples and spend time with their families. Some people also do a big cleaning of their homes.

